GENERAL NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Effect of Bland's Bill

NEW YORK Jan 30 The general sentiment in financial circles here, in anticipation of the passage of Bland's bill despite the veto is expressed by the Times in an article showing that gold goes up and silver down because that measure will drive gold out of the country but insure the remonetization of silver without adding materially to its use here. Paper will become a promise to pay silver and will exclude silver from use. Silver will fall, and paper will sink below its value as the promise surely falls behind the thing promised. It must be plain to every man who knows how business is done and where the capital is found to conduct it that the pending bill if passed will cause a time of frightful disaster unless business men protect themselves by putting their business at once on a gold basis as California does.

Anderson's Trial.

NEW ORLEANS Jan 30—In the Anderson trial to-day clerk Smart of Vernon parish court testified to the identity of election returns and his signature. Mr Ray counsel for defense, objected that this document was not the one set forth in the charge and was not properly before the court. The court however, decided this was a technical objection. A bill of exception was filed counsel contending that this document produced by the prosecution was a forgery and that consequently, the indictment was null and void. The information was after some discussion amended in a few particulars and the trial proceeded.

Died and Left no Sign.

DEADWOOD, Jan 30—A Russian name unknown, died in Deadwood Hospital to-day from the effects of a gun shot wound received last Saturday night near Lead City. Deceased refused to reveal who fired the shot or any circumstances connected with the affair.

Otto A. Tierback committed suicide to-day by shooting himself. The motive for the deed is unknown.

A Plan to Oust Sherman

CHICAGO, Jan 30—The Journal's Washington special says the National Republican intimates that there is a plan afoot to oust Secretary Sherman and put in Bristow and that Halsted, of the Cincinnati Commercial is engineering the matter.

Mining Exchange

The Mining Exchange was organized this morning.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The McGarrahan Claim.

CHICAGO Jan 30—The Times Washington special says: The famous McGarrahan claim came up again yesterday although the supreme court decision recently rendered was supposed to have settled it forever. Representative Luttrell introduced a bill to readjust the claim by congressional declaration on the subject.

Railroad Committee at Work.

WASHINGTON, Jan 30—The house committee on railways and canals to-day heard an argument in advocacy of the several bills now pending before the committee providing for the construction of a double track line of railway from New York to Council Bluffs. After some consideration it was agreed to refer the matter to a sub committee consisting of Schleicher, McKenzie and Mitchell.

Woman's Rights.

Isabella Beecher Hooker was before the house judiciary committee to-day in behalf of taxpayers of the U S. Her argument was to the effect that every woman who was a tax payer was entitled to vote.

The Returning Board Desperate.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30—The Inter Ocean's Washington special says: J Madison Wells is expected here by the evening train. He has been heard from twice since he left New Orleans, and is coming here to secure protection for himself and other members of the returning board. Democratic members of congress from Louisiana have received letters from New Orleans stating that the members of the returning board are desperate, and that Wells has threatened that if he has to suffer for his services in making Hayes president, Hayes will have to suffer with him. One Louisiana member says Wells will turn states evidence unless the president protects him in some way and if he does, Garfield Secretary Sherman Stanley Matthews and others, of the Republican visitors who went to New Orleans during the count, will be indicted also. This however, is received with much incredulity. It is announced by telegraph that a delegation is on its way here in the interest of the other members of the returning board. Wells' friends here say he will conceal himself for fear of kidnapping or requisition.

Commissioners Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Jan 30.—The president has appointed John W. Mackey and W S, Keys of Nevada, commissioners to the Paris Exposition.

Coin Testers.

WASHINGTON, Jan 30—The president appointed as commissioners to test the gold and silver coinage of the United States for the year 1877, Prof Charles W Elliott of Massachusetts; Prof. Thomas Egleston, Jr, New York; Prof. Robert E Rogers, Pennsylvania, A. Louden Snowden Pennsylvania, Hon J R. L Curry, Virginia Rev S A Bronson Ohio; Charles N Walker, Indiana, Hon Newton Bateman Illinois Charles Beardsley Iowa, and Hon John W Twiggs California. The ex-officio commissioners are, the judge of the United States district court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania the comptroller of currency and assayer of the assay office of New York. The commission will assemble at the mint in Philadelphia on the 13th of February next.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON Jan 30

Hoar read a communication from the committee of pensions in regard to the application of soldiers for pensions not having been acted on on account of insufficient clerical force in the office of the surgeon general, where hospital records of the army are kept.

Pending discussion the morning hour expired and the consideration was resumed of unfinished business, the silver bill.

Christiancy submitted an amendment in the nature of a substitute providing for the coinage of silver dollars of 4½ grains 9 10 pure silver and 1 10 alloy which shall be the legal tender for all debts except when otherwise provided by law or contract. It also authorizes the secretary of the treasury to purchase monthly not less than two million nor more than four million dollars worth of silver bullion to be coined. It further provides that the act shall remain in force but one year. Ordered printed. Christiancy then spoke in regard to his amendment.

Christiancy read a lengthy argument in support of his substitute and said he was not opposed to the introduction of silver coin into our currency. Neither was he opposed to making it a legal tender so as to be just to the creditor and debtors but he did not want to have the recoinage of silver so that it would repel other coin from the country. He could not approve of the remonetization of silver in homœpathic doses of 412½ grains but was willing to have it in allopathic doses of 4½ grains. The passage of the bill now before the senate was, in plain English debasing our coin and all such expedients had by the verdict of history debased the debaser more than the coin.

House

The house went into committee of the whole to consider the bill extending the time for the withdrawal of distilled spirits now in bond until July 1st 1878.

Butler's amendment providing that when spirits are withdrawn from bond the tax [illegible] ed at the rate required by law at the time of their entry into bond was adopted. [illegible]

Foster's substitute for the original [illegible] claring a reduction [illegible] cent was adopted by a vote of [illegible]

Davis of North Carolina [illegible] specting the section of the revised [illegible] ding the payment of pensions to [illegible] widow children or heirs of any [illegible] who in any manner voluntarily [illegible] aided or abetted the rebellion.

Hayes introduced a bill providing [illegible] destruction of legal tender notes and to make notes a legal tender for customs dues. Referred.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

Division in the English Parliament

LONDON Jan 30—Conservatives [illegible] the commons are expected to [illegible] in support of credit on Thursday. The [illegible] the rulers have not determined their course. The majority for credit is already estimated at over 100.

Meetings are being held throughout the country to influence parliament against credit but mostly by liberal or peace organizations.

The amendment to the original resolution against credit was passed by an immense majority declaring that the cause of peace and interests of the empire will be best promoted by supporting the foreign policy of the government.

In the house of commons this evening Forster conservative member for Gravesend gave notice that he would move to-morrow that the house while giving the government due credit for maintaining the policy determined upon, after the solemn assurances of the czar that he desired only the immunity of the Christian subjects of the Porte and aimed at no aggrandizement whatever is of the opinion that those assurances are being deliberately evaded by the proposed terms of peace and the advance of Russian arms and believes the time has come when immediate action of England is an absolute necessity and requests forthwith estimates for placing the army and navy on a war footing. Forster represents the strong Turcophile section of the house.

Servian Demands.

LONDON Jan 30—The Vienna Presse says Servia demands as one of the conditions of peace all of old Servia except that part comprised in Bosnia a hundred and fifty thousand Turkish pounds as war indemnity and the immediate appointment of a special commissioner to examine the respective claims of Roumania and Servia to the [illegible] of Widdin.

Great Distress—Appeal for Aid

The central committee of the Red Crescent Society telegraphs from Constantinople an appeal to all kindred committees of the Red Cross all benevolent institutions and all kind hearted men of all countries. It says a considerable number of wounded soldiers are flocking into Constantinople from all parts of the country. Nearly fifteen thousand refugees victims of the war flying from the scene of military operations, deprived of all means of existence and almost naked constitute a situation which considering the limited resources of the Red Crescent society might end in a general calamity, that smallpox and typhus have commenced among the refugees and efforts are making to send them to Asia. It is apprehended that the increased population of Constantinople will occasion a scarcity of provisions unless there is some special effort from without to replenish the stores. 800 refugees arrived Monday. It is impossible for all to find shelter. Many are huddled in open sheds knee deep in mud and water. The wholesale exodus from Roumelia is unabated.

Austria's Attitude.

LONDON, Jan 30—It is stated that Austria has declined to commit herself to joint action with England, unless she is previously assured that the British ministry is safe against assaults of the opposition which might leave Austria isolated at a later stage, and that the ministry intend, pending the vote to furnish requisite guarantees. If the ministry obtain a large majority a very important European combination will appear.

The Typhus Plague.

LONDON Jan 30—The Globe alleges on the authority of Russian newspapers that the typhus prevails among the Russian troops in Caucasus and Armenia to such an extent that it might be called a plague.

RUSSIA, ENGLAND AND GERMANY

A Berlin despatch of the 23d gives the following from the Provincial Correspondence, semi-official paper of the German government:

A complete peace will not be settled by the two belligerents alone and the solution of questions which have to be taken into consideration cannot to a certain extent be effected without previous understanding of the European powers and their co-operation. But the relations hitherto subsisting between the powers appear to afford good grounds for trusting that at this decisive moment of the Eastern complications success will attend the efforts made to bring about a solution while fully protecting the interests of general peace. A pledge of this seems to be afforded by the wisdom and moderation of the Emperor of Russia, his intimate union with neighboring powers and the peaceful disposition recently manifested by England.

A Russian view of England's policy is thus presented by the Journal of St. Petersburg Jan 23d

On receipt of the first telegram intimating the porte's desire to negotiate, we warned the the public against exaggerated hopes because the sincerity of the porte's desire for peace did not sufficiently appear. The dispatches published in the British Blue book confirm our view. The porte's initiative was prompted by Lord Derby not in order to offer the belligerents ground on which they might approach each other, but to enable England from the outset to interfere in the negotiations. It is right that this unprecedented diplomatic maneuver should be brought to the notice of all friends of peace. An armistice can only be concluded after an arrangement is arrived at upon peace preliminaries. The British cabinet declares it would only recognize a peace in the conclusion of which Europe participates. It follows that even in the face of the porte's signature peace preliminaries would be worthless the parties assent not being binding because Europe might annul it. This situation is further aggravated by the declaration of the British Government that it would await Russia's conditions before demanding a credit so that if the present attempt fails the attitude of England would have rendered an armistice and peace impossible and would plunge the East into fatal complications. We are far from entertaining the idea that the British cabinet desires this, although to every sincere and impartial observer the cogency of our arguments will be manifest. Europe must judge and it is necessary that in the public conscience and before the tribunal of history everybody should bear their proper share of responsibility.

SLAUGHTERING THE BUFFALO IN TEXAS—The town of Griffin is supported by buffalo hunters and is their general rendezvous in this section. The number of hunters on the ranges this season is estimated at 1,500. We saw at Griffin a plat of ground of about four acres covered with buffalo hides spread out for drying besides a large quantity piled up for shipment. These hides are worth in this place from $1 to $1 60 each. The generally accepted idea of the exciting chase in buffalo hunting is not the plan pursued by the men who make it a regular business. They use the needle gun with telescope buy the powder by the keg, their lead in bulk and [illegible] and make their own cartridges. The guns [illegible] a party of hunters are used by only [illegible] two men who say they usually kill [illegible] thirty or forty buffaloes [illegible] acres of ground. As soon as one is killed [illegible] [illegible] intention to [illegible] [illegible] six year old [illegible] meat is also saved and [illegible] common is a good price

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA

A Dull Night

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 30 Everything very quiet this evening. The workingmen's street rings lack life and snap in the absence of the chief agitators at Sacramento. The police in default of employment in breaking up meetings have turned their attention to Chinese gambling dens and raided one this evening in Washington alley bringing some 5 attendants of the game.

The weather has been showery during the day and evening but now 11 P M [illegible] clear wind fresh southwest.

The S P R R Extension

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 30—The Sentinel's Yuma Arizona special denies that the Southern Pacific railroad company is accumulating large quantities of material at Yuma destined for pushing the road through Arizona and says there is no indication there of any forward movement. Managers of the road here state that material for the extension of the road will not be sent into Arizona until congress confirms the action of the legislature granting the right of way through the territory. They say positively they do not intend to build the road without a charter and run the risk of forfeiture of rights and property.

Weather and Crops

Dispatches received this evening from the principal points throughout the state give very encouraging accounts of the prospects for the coming season. The recent rains have been copious and general. A larger area of land than heretofore is prepared for cultivation. A great deal of planting has been already performed and much more is in progress. Sufficient rain has fallen to ensure the harvest with the aid of the usual spring showers. Feed is generally good and stock doing well.

The mining outlook is favorable and general business prospects flattering.

Rebellion Suppressed

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 30 The steamer Zealandia arrived this evening from Sydney. She brings news of the suppression of the recent rebellion in Samoa.

Sunk to the Journalistic Grave

The Daily Mail may be considered as consigned to the journalistic cemetery. The manager announced this afternoon when salaries became due that the exchequer was empty and the concern was busted. It is reported that the printers and staff of the defunct journal intend to get out a final edition to-morrow morning and give the corpse a good send off.

Still Stormy

Blowing strong from the southeast and raining.

Feeding the Hungry.

The free restaurant of the San Francisco Benevolent Society corner of Jackson street and Montgomery avenue, will go into operation to-day, the mercantile classes responding freely to requests for assistance with money and provisions. Measures are also being taken in connection with furnishing meals to extend pecuniary aid in cases where investigation shows it can be properly applied such as the payment of rent for impoverished families, etc.

The lunch houses of the Central Methodist and Green street Congregational churches continue to be patronized by hundreds of destitute people for all of whom ample provision is made.

Work Suspended.

Owing to continued rain and the soft condition of the ground the Central Pacific has been compelled to temporarily suspend their operations on the Potrero designed to furnish labor for the unemployed. A few were retained digging ditches to drain the ground to be worked and as soon as the weather and condition of the soil will permit a large force will be put on.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Another Marine Disaster

VICTORIA Jan 29—A very heavy south easter is raging. The bark Lunalilo Captain Marsden, which arrived on Monday last 17 days from Honolulu about 9 A M parted her chain and was violently driven on the Lagoon spit near the entrance to Esquimalt harbor. The sea beating over her the officers and crew abandoned her about [illegible] P M. The storm calmed down about 5 P M. She is lying well up on the spit and is high and dry at low water. It is thought she may yet be got off all right. The Lady Lampson suffered severely and it is feared she will be condemned.

A STORY OF JOHN MORRISSEY

The New York Sun is responsible for the following respecting John Morrissey State senator from New York who is now possibly on his death bed in Jacksonville Florida.

Upon Mr Morrissey's arrival in Savannah he put up at the Pulaski House an old and somewhat famous resort for the southern chivalry. Though modest and unobtrusive in his demeanor his arrival created much interest and was silently lionized by all. One day however the traditional "Georgia blossom" arrived at the hotel. He came from the up country and was on his annual spree. He was six feet high well built and attracted general attention by the loudness of his voice the violence of his actions and his odd appearance. No one, however gave him any consideration and exasperated and disappointed he determined to create a sensation. Recognizing an acquaintance in the dining room where Mr Morrissey was quietly eating his dinner the Georgian began a conversation with him in a loud voice. "New York city" said the Muscogee blossom "is the slumhole of politicians. No respectable man can hold office there." Raising his voice "Why no man can be elected to the legislature from New York city unless he is a thief or a gambler." The object of his remarks was so palpable that every eye was turned upon Mr Morrissey but the latter did not raise his eyes and after dinner walked out on the piazza and lighted a cigar. One of the proprietors of the hotel began to apologize but the senator interrupted him by saying "You certainly are not responsible for the drivel of a blackguard and I hope you will say nothing more about it." While the senator was leaning upon the cigar stand the gentleman from Muscogee came down the corridor and purposely brushed against him in passing. Mr Morrissey tapped him on the shoulder saying "I beg your pardon sir but I overheard your remarks at the dinner table concerning New York and New Yorkers. Probably you were not aware that I am from New York city." "Oh yes I reckon I was" said the Muscogee blossom. "Then" continued Senator Morrissey "when calling the city members of the New York legislature thieves and gamblers you were not aware that I was one of those members." "Oh yes I reckon I was" repeated the Muscogee blossom very unconcernedly. "Probably you know who I am and your remarks at the table were meant for me" said the senator. "I reckon you're right" replied the blossom with refreshing insolence. "They were just meant for you and no one else." He stood with his fingers in his [illegible] Morrissey never raised his hands. For two seconds he remained motionless as a statue and then the Muscogee blossom fell to the floor bleeding and senseless a flower without a stalk. The senator had used one of the tricks of his early days and butted him. Like lightning he had buried his head against the skull of the Georgian and the latter dropped like a log. He was carried to his room insensible and for hours it was a question of life or death. If he ever has finally recovered and sold away to his cotton plantation a picture of fallen greatness.

TILDEN'S FRUSTRATED PLOT

A DINNER PARTY WHICH PLANNED [illegible] WHICH [illegible] SESSION [illegible]

It is certain that for a long time after the 4th of March last Mr Tilden cherished the hope that he might by some legal means yet get an entrance into the White House. The following programme of his friends is obtained by a Washington reporter for the New York Tribune from a person who is vouched for as one of the most trusted [illegible] of the Democratic party.

When the defection of the [illegible] destroyed the prospects of Gov Tilden on the 4th of March the hopes of his friends were placed upon an extra session which most of them thought was inevitable. The failure of the army bill it was not defeated for that purpose would, it was believed have the effect to compel the calling of an extra session. In the meantime the friends of ex-Governor Tilden met in council frequently to devise the best means of accomplishing their purpose. There was a large dinner party in New York at which David Dudley Field and most of the strong supporters of Tilden were present including many lawyers and congressmen. At that conference plans of procedure were discussed. Ex Governor Tilden [illegible] was considered and it was generally except possibly by Mr Field himself believed to be radically defective, and that it provided no means of guarding against the dangers which could scarcely be avoided. Whether the suit should be originally brought in the supreme court of the District of Columbia or in another of the United States courts was also a serious question. In the course of the evening a plan was suggested which it was believed would remove this difficulty and result in bringing the matter to an early decision in the United States supreme court, or which would certainly prevent such delays as would preclude the possibility of a final determination of the question during the life of the present administration. That plan was definitely agreed on in outline and if there had been an extra session and the troops had not been withdrawn from South Carolina and Louisiana and if the present administration had followed in the footsteps of the previous administration a bill embodying this plan would certainly have been presented as the deliberate policy of the majority of the Democratic party.

Neither the details of the plan nor any hint of its real purpose has ever been published. It was in substance this: The great difficulty had been to find some measure which would avoid the delays indicated. Such a plan it was believed was found in the draft of a bill based upon the second article third section of the constitution of the United States. That section gives original jurisdiction to the supreme court of the United States in this language: "In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls and those in which a state shall be a party the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction." That clause it was thought would give the supreme court immediate jurisdiction of the presidential controversy. The two houses of congress could [illegible] and it was thought would have passed a bill [illegible] which felt that it had been robbed of its electoral vote and misrepresented by the action of strangers in its electoral college who had fraudulently cast the vote of the state contrary [illegible] will to appear before the bar of the United States supreme court and apply [illegible] warrant.

It was believed that such a bill would pass and that if it passed the president could not have declined to sign it if presented to him by the representatives of the people. Such a declaration would have raised so strong a presumption of conscious [illegible] that it was not for a moment believed that the executive would have declined to approve the bill. Once passed the case would have been brought immediately before the supreme court without the intervention of any intermediate United States or district courts, and without the possibility of any material delay. The difficulties of securing a jury to consider the question of fact were considered and it was suggested that a jury could be obtained from among the chief justices of the several states.

So far continued the informant did the deliberations go. But no extra session was called the troops were withdrawn and the president was well disposed. He carried out what we maintain are Democratic principles and for one—and I think I speak for many Democrats—am opposed to disturbing the public peace by any attempts to renew the agitation of last winter or to reopen the presidential question. We feel that the Democrats will come into power in 1880 and will come to stay and that any attempt to disturb the present status would not only result in our present defeat but possibly in a [illegible] future generations.

THE ORIGIN OF SOME ENGLISH OATHS

From the [illegible] World

Everybody who is acquainted with a little French [illegible] knows [illegible] of the exclamation Dame! Many English [illegible] imagine that it must mean lady and refer to the Virgin Mary [illegible] [illegible] Dame [illegible] New [illegible] English we have a kind of checked curse [illegible]

Damn [illegible] as if an Englishman were about to [illegible] something but suddenly stopped himself. It is the old French word [illegible] by the English and [illegible] with a new and false meaning. [illegible] Dame [illegible] of the old Frenchman [illegible]

ONE FACT OF THE LABOR QUESTION

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

A gentleman brought me into town early one morning last week. As we came by the laboring man's house he came out with a jug and [illegible] and counted out [illegible] for a gallon of whisky [illegible] cents for some meat 50 cents for coal oil and 25 cents for candles and wished the gentleman to buy and bring them out on his return. Twice as much cash was spent for whisky as for food and lights.

At another place I learned that a man had been cutting wood and hauling with two teams to town for several months and that he often returned home drunk and that he could not get ahead in [illegible]. Of course not. Such a workman will have many broken days and broken wagon spokes and broken credits and broken hopes and plans, and broken-hearted hours of his own, besides the breaking heart of his wife and broken joys of his children. They will get fewer and fewer comforts as the years of his drinking go on.

At another point the whisky is kept for lips that get thirsty on the road. Suppose a man spends $2 50 per week for whisky, it will amount to $130 per year. This sum is a dead loss. It gives him neither food or clothing. It takes away his power. It unmans him. Yet this sum would clothe him and his family for a year. Or it would buy all their flour and meat for a year.

A man offered me a cigar. I told him that I had not smoked for 46 years and then only once for my mother bade me throw away the cigar and never use it again and I obeyed. He gave the steward 50 cents for two cigars and offered me one. I had to explain again that I did not smoke and asked him if smoking cost much? "Only $2 per day" he said "when I am traveling. I commonly buy a box of cigars and get them at half that rate or even less." He was a "runner" for a San Francisco house and the bill is charged to expenses. Those who buy the goods have to pay at last. Another young man said he had often spent $2 50 per day for cigars but now it did not cost him over 50 cents a [illegible]. Another man smokes a cigar or a pipe and it gets along cheap say from 10 to 25 cents per day. At 10 cents per day he spends $36 50 per year which is enough to buy him a new suit of clothes every year. At 25 cents per day for tobacco a man spends $91 25 which is enough to clothe himself his wife and his child, or to buy all their flour and [illegible] for a year.

At 50 cents per day the sum is $182 50 per year for tobacco. This would if saved, pay for flour and meat and one-half the house rent for a year. At $2 a day for cigars or for cigars and whisky the sum per year will be $730. This sum will feed and clothe, support and educate a family and leave a few dollars to invest in a home.

A smoker complained of pains about his heart. The physician says it is due to tobacco. Stop smoking for a few weeks and your pain will stop. Another smoker complains of dull and gloomy hours. Everything goes wrong and looks wrong. He feels well for a little while and then comes on depression of spirits. The physician says this is due to tobacco smoking. Another gets dry often and craves a drink and hurries to the bar. Smoking parches his lips and creates his feverish thirst.

Another smokes and dozes and rouses up and sinks down and has less and less real purpose in life and less and less power to do anything. The physician charges his failure to the narcotism of tobacco, or the worse evil of alcoholism.

A smoker's sight sometimes fails him, because as the oculist explains, the nerve of sight becomes deadened and absorbed, and its place is filled by a fatty membrane. This happens, he adds oftener to the whisky drinker. A smoker's hand is paralyzed so that he can not write. He has the scribbler's paralysis. The experienced physician explains that the narcotism will even produce this paralysis of the hand or any other organ that is weakened.

It is a habit that does no good, and brings positive sure and great evil to body and mind. "My father smoked till he was 70 years old, said a man and he kept vigorous." That may be but you suffer now at 40 from the habit. "Yes I know it, and I wish I could give it up. I have no money. I can't get work or pay, and what I do." But you could have your tobacco money if you would throw away your pipe and "burn the bridge" between you and it. "I know that. I know it is of no use to me but a harm and I wish I was rid of it for ever." Quit the habit and you will have cash in hand and work to do and you will do it better and get more work and more pay. The man who eats good food and gets good rest will do good work and will find work to do for others and get his pay or he will get land and hew him out a home. He will have reserve power of body and mind which tobacco smoking burns up, or which whisky destroys. He will have money and self respect and the respect and esteem of others. He will prosper. He will find ways to improve his condition which he cannot now see. He will have a manly courage and bearing that will control circumstances instead of being controlled by them.

G H ATKINSON

JUDGE KEY

WHAT HE SAYS OF REPUDIATION AND TENNESSEE MATTERS.

[Special to the St. Louis Republican.]

The following conversation took place today between Postmaster General Key and your correspondent relative to the stories about Tennessee repudiating her state debt.

Correspondent—What about these repudiation stories, judge, they are telling of the Democracy of your region?

Mr Key—Well, to tell the truth there is more foundation for them than I like. We have some few men down our way who belong to the unreconciled and they have been going about preaching the gospel of repudiation to the people. They are men like Savage and Collier, who did a great deal of fighting for the lost cause but now have scarcely any property left. They attribute it all to the war and the loss of their negroes and charge that the bondholders are building up fortunes on their ruins in these hard times. They seem to be successful in telling certain classes that they ought to seize the opportunity to get even with the bondholders by repudiating the whole debt, and thus escaping any further taxation which you can understand is rather repugnant just now.

Correspondent—But judge, Smith states that it was not a party question in the legislature and he is a good republican authority.

Mr Key—Yes and that is true, to some extent I believe. The best among the Democratic leaders were in favor of the honest payment of the debt but unfortunately the Republicans were solid on it and we are divided. I regret that it is so. I see it stated that some wily broker who claimed to represent many of these bonds was [illegible] [illegible] but the members of the legislature could not have allowed themselves to be [illegible] by any such [illegible]. [illegible] the question of repudiation of [illegible] of the state debt will [illegible] the issue in the next state campaign and I [illegible] Democrats will have the good sense [illegible] policy to plant them [illegible]

[illegible] SENS—Says the [illegible] [illegible] express the [illegible] satisfaction I have [illegible] [illegible] Perfect peace in [illegible] everywhere [illegible] [illegible] arrangements by which colored citizens who refused to become good Democrats were [illegible] Is there really nothing of that

MAINE'S PROWEST KNIGHT

TILTS BETWEEN BLAINE, HOAR AND DAWES—THE PLUMED KNIGHT MAINTAINS HIS OLD RENOWN

On the 22d January a remarkable incident occurred in the senate. Hamlin moved to accept for the national gallery a statue of William King first governor of Maine which had been offered by that state. Blaine took up the matter and made certain severe reflections on the course which Massachusetts had always pursued toward Maine. Hoar and Dawes responded. The report says: The skill, force and readiness with which Blaine met and vanquished both the Massachusetts senators in the running debate excited universal admiration and dispelled all doubts as to his continued possession of the remarkable powers and resources which invariably made him victorious in his old time combats when a member of the house. The principal part of the debate is here subjoined.

Blaine in the course of a short speech alluded to the noble course of Mr King and then reverted to the relations of the district of Maine to the state of Massachusetts to the rancor mutual ill will and almost hatred that was first bred by what Maine considered the injustice and oppression of Massachusetts and then increased by the events of the war of 1812 in which Maine stood nobly by the Madison administration while Massachusetts acted in a manner thoroughly unpatriotic if not treasonable.

Hoar questioned the propriety of discussing the point raised but said Massachusetts had no desire to conceal any portion of her history, although "she might blush for the utterances of some of her public men, as what state might not" He intimated that Blaine had become so disturbed by recent events that he had allowed it to interfere with the proprieties of discussion.

Mr Blaine—Mr President, I do not understand either of the senators from Massachusetts to dispute the exact and literal truth of the statement I felt called upon to make in reciting briefly the history of Governor King.

Mr Dawes—I stated that doubtless the senator from Maine preferred to pick out or gather from the history of the relations between Massachusetts and Maine isolated instances and isolated extracts such as he seemed to have so much more a taste for rather than that which so abounded in all their history of generous and high toned fellowship.

Mr Blaine—Then I have merely to say Mr President, that every statement, every quotation every fact every incident in relation to Governor King which I stated is upon Massachusetts authority and to have given anything like a sketch of Governor King's life without giving his conflict with Massachusetts touching the separation of Maine and her erection to an independent state would have been to write the life of Abraham Lincoln without mentioning the great rebellion which, as president of the United States, he was so largely instrumental in suppressing. I do not know that I desire to have the least controversy upon a point of this kind upon an occasion such as this but I thought it came with rather ill grace from the senator from Massachusetts (Hoar) to taunt me with trying to ingratiate myself with a certain class of senators when he has himself been a great apostle of modern reconciliation, hankering for an embrace, representing the idea of certain political power elsewhere, and urging that every possible thing should be done to solicit favor in that direction. I have not myself been classed exactly in that line, and I do not think I am one who would step very far forward to create smiles on their faces. Maine did not make an unpatriotic record. If Massachusetts made it it is not the fault of the historian or the speaker who recalls it.

Mr Dawes—Will the senator tell us when Massachusetts, as a state, ever made an unpatriotic record, either in the war of 1812 or in the older war of the Revolution, or in any war which has followed it? There have been individuals in Massachusetts, so there have been in Maine, who have not been patriots but if Massachusetts ever made an unpatriotic record the senator from Maine when he charges it should tell us when and where.

Mr Blaine—I will tell you. I will tell you now and here. Massachusetts refused to pass and tabled a resolution thanking one of her own naval officers for a victory because it was gained in an unjust war. She refused to thank the admirable and gallant commander of the Hornet for capturing the British man of war Peacock. That stands in your own legislative journals if you want the record. I can give you more and graver instances until the sun sets, and for the senator from Massachusetts to rise here and pretend that his state did not bristle all over with unpatriotic records, going clear up to the verge of treason and in the opinion of some patriots of that day, stepping one point beyond, is a degree of bravery which it would have been well to have shown in the war and not reserved to this day. [Great laughter and a voice on the Democratic side, "This is rich."]

Mr Dawes—Mr President, the extent of the offense which the senator from Maine can bring against Massachusetts in the war of 1812 was that she lacked the disposition publicly to return thanks.

Mr Blaine—No stop right there one moment. Massachusetts refused to let her soldiers march beyond the boundaries of her own state, and refused pointedly to respond to a call of the general government for her troops.

Mr Dawes defended his state and said that Massachusetts was opposed to the war of 1812. Her position then she is not ashamed of and she does not undertake to belie history but with exceptions here and there like every other state in this union under like circumstances she was true to the union and her gallant soldiers and sailors laid down their lives in her defense. It was not the war of 1812 that troubled the senator from Maine in delivering his eulogy upon William King; that was not it. There was another trouble and it was a trouble which the senator from Maine ought to have forgotten. It was a feeling between distinguished men in Massachusetts growing out of discussions for years of the question of separation. That bred ill nature and injustice and intemperate speech and it was the last thing that Massachusetts expected when the senators from Maine were to present the statue of her first governor who when he was a part of Massachusetts, was honored and esteemed quite as much by her people as by those of Maine. It was the last thing that Massachusetts expected on such an occasion that the burden of the presentation on the part of the senator from Maine (Blaine) should be a raking up of all that intemperate speech, and quite as much will Massachusetts be surprised and Maine be surprised that he attempts to justify it by holding up the course of Massachusetts in the last war with Great Britain.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A bill has passed the house so revising the steamboat law that none but citizens or persons actually residing in the United States shall be licensed as pilots and engineers.

C M Carter writes from Washington Jan 16: The appropriation to pay the Oregon claims passed the senate but was defeated in the house during the recent extra session.

The storm in California has not been a very general one. Yuba and Feather rivers have not been very high, neither has the American or San Joaquin. The flood has been confined to Pitt and Sacramento rivers.

It is now claimed that a close canvass of the house shows that only 96 votes can be relied on for the Texas Pacific subsidy. It is apparent that the only bill which has a chance of passing is that for the Northern Pacific.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat says that it was Pendleton's personality that won the senatorial battle at Columbus. He always makes friends and never repels any. The political significance consists in the fact that Thurman and Pendleton have always worked together, and now that the latter is senator Thurman is fairly on the track for 1880 against Hendricks, Tilden and all other aspirants.

Col Jose Castillo a civil engineer, has arrived at New York bringing in a little bottle what he declares are the remains of Columbus. He says they were discovered in a small leaden box which bears the inscription of the great navigator's name. Somebody shortly may be expected to start an opposition casket or bottle of remains. It will not do to allow any one person a monoply of the great discoverer's ashes.

S W Williams professor of the Chinese language in Yale College who lived forty years in China and subsequently as secretary of the United States legation has been before the senate committee giving his views of Chinese immigration. He protested against abrogation of the treaty with China, said that country was being slowly elevated by outside influence, and thought the presence of 100 000 Chinese in Connecticut would do no harm. He admitted, however, that he had no acquaintance with the Chinese question as presented in our Pacific states.

There is another report of Blaine's action in the senate on the 22d different from the rosy one elsewhere given in THE OREGONIAN. A Chicago Times dispatch says: A literal mad bull plunging about in the traditional China shop could not have created greater havoc than did Blaine in the senate chamber. Plain matter-of-fact men call Blaine a "damphool," for needlessly calling down upon his head the enmity of the entire state of Massachusetts. There was nothing in the occasion to warrant Blaine's nervous bullying, and the scene was as unexpected as sensational. What was proposed to be an occasion of the greatest formality was turned into a scene of the wildest excitement between two New England states.

A dispatch of the 23d says: The boasted Democratic economy of the last session, under the revelations of needed deficiency bills, has grown rapidly less. At the close of the fiscal year it was only $19 000 000 in place of $30,000,000. It is claimed $3 500 000 of this was a saving in interest, with which the house has nothing to do. $1,500,000 was on account of Bristow's reduction of custom house expenses and subsequent deficiency bills will make a still further reduction of nearly $5 000,000, thus leaving a total of Democratic economy of a little over $9 000 000 even. This has seriously crippled several branches of the public service, and the Democrats themselves are now moving to restore some of the offices which were cut off.

SUBSIDIES AND MONOPOLIES.

The New York Times of January 17th, in an elaborate article on subsidies and monopolies, has this to say about a matter which has been much discussed here:

The Southern Pacific is a creature of the Central Pacific, perhaps the greediest and most unscrupulous of all the monopolies which the federal government has helped to build up. Its purpose in promoting the construction of the Southern Pacific is part of the monopolizing policy which leads it in another direction, through one of its congressional agents, to impede the plans of the Northern Pacific. With the Northern Pacific despoiled and excluded from Oregon, and with the Southern route in its hands the dominion of the Central Pacific would be complete.

The opposition to the just request of the Northern Pacific for an extension of the time prescribed in its charter, proceeds altogether from the joint efforts of the Union and Central companies. Virtually, the request of the Northern Pacific is that it shall be let alone. It does not ask for the loan or gift of a dollar; it does not seek another acre, it asks only that time shall be granted for the fulfilment of an undertaking which has more than 600 miles in operation, and suffered, like others, from the collapse of 1873. The opposition of Senator Mitchell is too well understood to call for consideration. The maneuvers of the Union and Central companies are a different matter. They desire simply to prevent competition, or if that be not wholly possible, to acquire a hold which shall be equivalent to control upon competing routes. What they cannot control they propose to kill.

THURSDAY MORNING JAN 31 1878

ENGLAND AND RUSSIA

w ng [illegible] frequent inter [illegible] tele graph [illegible] communication recently we have not be able to keep fully [illegible] the movement of European affairs [illegible] largely engrossing the attention of the world. The situation [illegible] is unexpected and extraordinary. Negotiations have been in progress between the belligerents for nearly a fortnight yet the drift of them has been concealed from the other powers. England has almost asserted her purpose to protect Constantinople and Russia is indignant at the attitude of England and proposes to keep her in the dark until she has obtained certain military and diplomatic advantages. Austria it is declared appears to be confidentially informed of the purpose of the Russians to enter Constantinople and has waived her objections to Russian occupation of that city. Germany takes little interest in the matter and France none at all. England alone is full of excitement and anxiety.

In the rapid advance which Russia has made in position as well as in territory during more than one hundred years it is curious to note how much assistance she has received from England the nation now most jealous of Russian power. England is to a great extent the maker of the power she so much dreads to day. It is well observed by a historical writer that when she has one of her crazes or crusades on hand she is ready to obtain aid on any terms and thus he has helped on more than one occasion to bring about a state of things very detrimental to her own interests. England persisting in her long wars against Napoleon till his final overthrow, built up Russia into a power that has ever since threatened her and which now is on the very point of carrying the long disputed advantage as to an outlet for the great Russian empire through the Mediterranean.

It has not been the policy of England to enter alone upon any great undertaking affecting European interests but at this time she is not able to secure the co operation of any of the powers. All the rest are taking the situation quite coolly. England alone is hurt. Peace may be made without her. In any conceivable event her traditional policy with regard to the east is a thing of the past. Russia will secure the advantage for which she has waited so long and the English blood and English treasure expended in the Crimean war were wholly wasted. What happens now might just as well have happened then so far as the interests of England are in any way involved.

THE GOLD BASIS

Leading financial journals of the east are discussing the practicability of wholly rejecting the schemes of the inflationists and enforcing in business strict adherence to a gold basis. We have on several occasions recently taken notice of this movement. It is strongly supported by arguments from sound authorities. How it may be made practicable is pointed out by the New York Daily Bulletin, a paper whose discussions of financial topics rank it with the foremost in this field. It is admitted that the retail trade could not be transacted on a gold basis, because the supply of gold currency would not be sufficient for effecting its payments. But beyond this it is not apparent why mercantile transactions could not be conducted upon a gold basis. Cotton, grain, provisions and petroleum now have to be sold for export at gold prices. What is to prevent dealers from agreeing through the trade exchanges to buy their cotton or grain or petroleum only at gold rates and pay in coin drafts? The dealers in the interior would probably object to such terms because then the risks in buying in a fluctuating currency and selling in a stable one would rest upon them instead of as now upon the seaboard merchant. But the interior merchant could have no alternative if the seaboard exchanges were unanimous in this usage, and he could have no reasonable ground of complaint if the congressmen of his section had made this step necessary." The Bulletin explains further that the feasibility of transacting business upon this basis has been demonstrated by several years' experience in the import trade, which as between the importer and the jobber has been conducted almost exclusively upon a gold basis. It is noticeable that the brunt of all this would fall on the people at large as consumers who would be charged silver prices for everything bought of retail dealers. A debased currency always operates in this way as a measure of oppressing the very class who are led by demagogues and charlatans to suppose they are making the most by it. In time people will learn that a debased currency is the most effective device for swindling them that ever was or ever could be invented.

BY LAW, NOT BY LABOR

We have called it a famous idea that "wealth is created by law and not by labor." The Standard seriously attempts to refute this; and in the effort to maintain its hobby that law not labor, creates wealth says a good deal about the iron "money" of Lycurgus, Indian wampum and the like, as if these learned allusions settled it. Such being the case all we have to do is to turn our attention exclusively to law-making. Since we can create wealth by law we shall now set aside the original curse and eat our bread not in the sweat of the face, but in the easy and agreeable exercise of volubility—in other words playing chin music—upon the floors of legislation. It probably will occur however to many that Lycurgus with all his iron coin and the Indian with all his wampum would have possessed more wealth had they depended more on labor to create it. Again, only a day or two ago the Standard stated that the passage of bills does not build railroads. Why not since railroads are among the most prominent forms of wealth and wealth is created by legislation? The new theory of economical science has [illegible] res, but as it is yet in its infancy we [illegible] doubt that like the project of the Laputan philosopher for making silk out of [illegible] webs it will yet be susceptible of [illegible] ment.

Some days ago Mr [illegible] sent to the senate a list of the names of newspapers in Oregon and Washington which he [illegible] support [illegible] his bill. In [illegible] list we [illegible] names of several [illegible] Doubtless he was misinformed [illegible] furnished him through untrustworthy sources. Why for instance he should [illegible] the Yamhill Reporter, Salem [illegible] Jacksonville Times amongst the emphatic supporters of his bill we have not been able to learn through anything that is appearing in their respective columns. But if every newspaper in Oregon and Washington should support it as strongly as the press of Ohio supports the silver craze that fact would not convert an unsound and [illegible] into a [illegible]

The members of the Louisiana returning board who gave that state to Hayes are in the depths of tribulation. If the administration don't protect them they will tell all the secrets of the business. J Madison Wells delivers some plain talk on this subject. He has started to Washington for protection and if he doesn't get it he will make some howl. Let the band play. If the [illegible] will be a pretty sensation for the newspapers. We like [illegible] lively reading matter.

A bill [illegible] proposed by the house committee on territories to secure a secret ballot to the people of Utah to disfranchise polygamists and to repeal the act of the territorial legislature which gives the elective franchise to women in the territory. It is believed that a sweeping measure of this character will destroy the principal [illegible] of the peculiar institution.

By Harper's Weekly it is stated thus: "The scheme to make silver an unlimited tender is a proposition to pay the laborer 92 cents with which to buy a dollar's worth of flour." It is upon the very class which is invoked to support the bill that its consequences will fall most heavily.

The Russian loss in killed and wounded in the assault on Shipka Pass which resulted in the capture of the entire Turkish force defending it was 5 464. This was pretty sharp fighting.

Another great measure of Democratic reform is partially accomplished. The house has passed a resolution declaring it expedient to cut down the tax on whisky.

THE HAWAIIAN TREATY

AN OFFICIAL REPORT UPON IT—HOW IT OPERATES AGAINST THE UNITED STATES

The results of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty are just what intelligent persons anticipated. The transaction constitutes the greatest fraud ever perpetrated on the United States through any treaty. It has cut off a very large revenue and transferred the money directly to the pockets of planters on the islands and to those of a sugar ring in San Francisco. It has not diminished but increased the cost of sugar to consumers in our Pacific states as every merchant will testify, and as every consumer is able to prove for himself. It has annihilated half the revenue of this customs district and has caused a loss to the customs at San Francisco many times greater than that suffered here. It has created no market at the islands for our products that compensates for the great losses. In short the treaty has had just the effect which Senator Booth predicted and an effect just opposite to that predicted by Senator Mitchell who was one of its principal advocates. That these statements are in every respect correct let appeal be made to a report just sent to Washington by Gen Comly, United States minister to the islands. A Washington dispatch of January 25th not received here because of interruption of the lines gives a summary of this report. It is admitted that the carrying trade between the United States and Hawaii has greatly increased since the treaty went into effect but it is shown that this brings the United States no advantage. The minister says:

The impetus given to the insular sugar and rice trade by the treaty has brought not only agents, but principals from British manufactories to the island to extend their trade by furnishing sugar and rice machinery while not one principal or agent from the United States has yet made his appearance notwithstanding the wide range of free importation granted to American manufacturers in almost every branch of mechanical production, especially in agricultural implements and machinery, in which the United States excel. The Hawaiian trade is almost wholly abandoned to British competition although the latter has to meet the disadvantages of a tariff, and of thousands of miles of additional carriage. The Hawaiian sugar crop finds its principal market among the refineries of San Francisco, but the advantage mainly rests with the planters on the Islands who pocket the difference of the tariff duties in their favor under the treaty. The San Francisco refiners strange to say, do not seem to build up a Hawaiian market for refined products. In return the planter with the very money he receives from the refiner for his raw sugar purchases German refined sugar or some other according to representations made to him by foreign agents. The Hawaiian rice crop also is almost entirely taken in the United States and Islanders buy for their own consumption direct from China, Japan or the East Indies a cheap rice of paddy of inferior quality, which serves equally well for their plantation laborers.

RESULTS OF THE SILVER BILL

Mr Cernuschi known throughout the world as one of the most eminent authorities on money science has written a letter to D F Nourse, of Boston, in which he states these as the consequences of the passage of the Bland bill:

All the new silver of Nevada and the old silver of Germany would be brought to the American mint to coinage, and all gold would be exported from America to Europe. Against this assertion the Cincinnati Commercial quotes France, where gold and silver circulate side by side and from where gold is not exported. That is true but why is gold not exported from France? Because silver is not coined, and consequently no silver is introduced into France. Should France reopen her mint to silver, she would absorb the American and German silver and lose her gold. But with the United States coining silver at the ratio 16, France can not reopen her mint for coining five franc pieces which are at the ratio 15½, and the United States will sell at a premium all their gold dollars against silver. In fact, the United States will become a monometallic country, just the same as English India.

Here it is asked what will then be the relative value of silver and gold on the general market, especially in London. I answer: always fluctuating. While America has gold to give in exchange for silver the value of silver can be high. When the Am[illegible] shall be exhausted the value of silver will be weak. Various foreseen and unforeseen circumstances will later determine continuous changes in the respective values of gold and silver. Without a [illegible] law fixing the same legal ratio in the principal countries the relative value of gold and silver [illegible] be [illegible] the [illegible] a [illegible]

FINANCES OF UNION COUNTY

Some of the counties of our state have been badly fleeced during several years by the officials to whose care the administration of their affairs has been intrusted. Union is one of the counties which has a heavy and apparently hopeless debt. The Sentinel suggests a relief bill to remit the state taxes a method which would simply throw the burden on the other counties whose affairs have been managed better while the Gazette makes the annexed statement and recommendations:

The indebtedness of Union county is fast becoming a matter of serious concern among the people, and those who suppose they can divert the attention of the tax ridden people of this county from a subject of such vital interest except in a direct manner showing where the responsibility lies, will find themselves disappointed. We have no desire to make this subject in the least manner a political question, on the contrary as we think it a personal matter entirely. And if our county officials can show that some one or more persons are responsible for this mighty debt and our high taxes amounting to nearly twenty thousand dollars annually it is their right. But we assure them that the taxpayers of this county are not going to be satisfied to be taxed three per cent annually on their taxable property and the county debt increasing ever [illegible] little manoeuvering [illegible] ten thousand dollars sent out of the county to the hands of bloated b[illegible] who [illegible] money [illegible] take it thereby compelling [illegible] to pay from [illegible] to 90 cents [illegible] orders to pay the county [illegible] their taxes when if they were all in the county they could be bought [illegible]

WORKINGMEN'S PARTY

The San Francisco [illegible] in a long double leaded article says the recent special election in Alameda [illegible] the signal gun announcing [illegible] of California. It declares that the workingmen's party is [illegible] the great political [illegible] sure to rise to [illegible] leaders are wise enough and moderate enough in speech to shape its course within the law. It gives these figures on the Alameda election:

A careful analysis of the vote cast on Tuesday shows that the labor party has torn the democracy into very rags in Alameda and dealt a most stunning blow to the republicans. At the September election the total vote was 7 118—republicans 3 712, democrats 3 295, workingmen, a pitiful 113. On Tuesday it being rainy and stormy and adverse to a full poll the total vote was 4 340—republicans, 2 038, democrats (with the same candidate running in September) 572, workingmen 1 730. The republican vote was reduced to one half and the democratic vote to less than one sixth but the vote of the workingmen's party was increased over twenty three fold that is to say from 113 in September to 1 730 in January.

IMPORTANT JUDGMENT

Last spring a man named Cogswell who was walking on the track of the O & C R R in this county was run over and killed. He was deaf and therefore unable to hear the approaching engine. His father as administrator brought suit against the railroad company for $5 000 damages. The case was appealed from a judgment of non suit to the supreme court where an opinion was delivered by Boise against the appellant on the following grounds:

When the evidence produced by the plaintiff in a case is not sufficient to sustain a verdict it is proper for the court to order a nonsuit on the motion of the defendant.

The manager of a railroad train (running on the [illegible]) seeing a person walking along the track may reasonably suppose that he will get out of the way of the train on the sounding of the alarm.

Managers of a train are not bound to apply the brakes in time to stop the train before it would reach a man seen walking on the track apparently in possession of his ordinary faculties.

It is gross negligence for one who is deaf to walk along the track of a railroad when trains are liable to pass. The judgment of the court must be affirmed.

MARRIED.

At the residence of J H G[illegible] in this city Jan 30th by Rev A S Coats Mr D M C Gault of Washington county and Miss Lydia E Humphrey of this city.

DIED.

January 30th Emma J daughter of Joseph and Lucy Cross aged 4 years 3 months and 10 days.

Her funeral will take place at 1 o'clock from the residence of Mr L Woodbury Main street between 8th and 9th.

A BUSINESS CHANCE.

THE PROPRIETOR MRS G H CLARKE HAS determined upon retiring from business and therefore offers for sale her elegant MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT located on Washington street. One of the best opportunities that has been offered in this city for a number of years is open to any one who would like to purchase. The business has been long established and enjoys an enviable reputation in its line. It possesses the very best class as its customers and during the nine years of its existence has always enjoyed the full [illegible] share of public patronage, and were it not for the most substantial reasons it would not be for sale. A rare opportunity that is seldom offered is thereby open to one who would take up the business and continue it as it stands without necessitating any losses through delays of transfers. The business will be disposed of upon the most reasonable terms including stock and fixtures and a bargain is offered the purchaser in every particular. It is desirable that parties contemplating purchase will apply immediately as it has been determined upon to close [illegible] out at once without delay. It is proposed to sell it and it must be done. For terms and particulars apply at the store. MRS G H CLARKE

CITY.

THE SMALLPOX.—A gentleman just down from Yamhill county informs us that considerable excitement still prevails in that part of the country over the smallpox. Mr Wm White, an old citizen of that county, is down with the disease and it is feared he cannot recover. This person waited on members of the Allison family who were down with the disease, and in that manner contracted the scourge. Two men—an uncle and nephew named Allison took the disease and died. It was first pronounced by the physicians in attendance to be measles Mr White attended these persons and even helped to lay them out when dead Subsequently the startling discovery was made that the disease was smallpox. Knowing that he was liable to contract the disease Mr White very prudently began to prepare his system by dieting He also had a small cabin standing some distance from his own house fitted up so that should his fears be realized he could be properly cared for without endangering the lives of his family and friends He even hired a man to attend to him should he take the loathsome disorder As he anticipated he contracted the disease and was removed to the isolated building. A man named Conley who also waited on the Allison family at the same time Mr White did fell sick and was moved to the cabin Conley's disease proved to be a mild type of varioloid and he soon recovered However White took the most malignant type of confluent smallpox and when our informant left Dayton his recovery was deemed almost hopeless Since the death of Mr Allison two of his children have died of the disease, and a third one was reported past recovery Young Olds of Dayton, one of the first persons who took the disease (varioloid) at all, has convalesced and is resuming his work. So far as is known at present, four deaths have resulted from smallpox in that section of the country Every possible precaution has been and is being taken against the further spread of the contagion, and it is thought that there will be no more cases. The excitement at Hillsboro has subsided Miss Kirkwood came down to that place from Yamhill some days ago and it was supposed had been exposed to the disease as she was sorry after taken ill Her disease turns out to be typhoid fever so the nerves of the people in that community again rest easy

MONUMENTAL SILVER MINE.—But little has been published concerning the progress of work on the above mine since the company had one and a half tons of ore worked in this city, making a silver brick of the value of $313. The work done since has been in driving the tunnel. It will be remembered that the shaft sunk on the Monumental mine was at a depth of 115 feet The tunnel was commenced at a distance of 552 feet from the shaft, to strike the ledge at a depth of 300 feet. In the progress of this tunnel four ledges have been cut all good ore When the tunnel was in 436 feet the air was such that more ventilation was necessary and a full force of men were put to work to sink an air shaft, which was commenced on a ledge 435 feet from the mouth of the tunnel By working both from above and below this important feature was completed on the 19th inst, thus affording fine ventilation and enabling the work both in the tunnel and drifting on the ledges to proceed more rapidly. Advices were received at the office of the company here, Nov 27th that the tunnel had just cut a ledge of ruby silver ore one foot wide and yesterday a dispatch was received from C S Miller superintendent, that the tunnel had cut another ledge of good ore This ledge is but 75 feet from the Monumental lode, which with the progress now being made, will speedily be reached The very important developments thus briefly sketched with the prospects of striking the main ledge in so short a time has justified the company in advancing the price of the stock to $1 per share. Specimens of ore from the different ledges can be seen at the office of the company. The richness and extent of the Granite creek quartz region is in a fair way to be demonstrated and establish the fact that Nevada does not contain all the silver on the Pacific slope.

PURCHASE OF CITY PROPERTY.—Yesterday there was filed in the county records a deed by James B. Walker, of San Francisco to William Reid of this city of lot No 1 in block 77, brick stores now occupied by Everding & Farrell and Frank Bros & Co on Front and Alder, including the wharf and wharf privileges Also lot No 1 in block No 2, being 50 feet on Front street and 100 feet on Alder street with the fine two story iron and brick buildings occupied by Mr Beck the gunsmith and M. Lichenstein clothier the upper story being the late Progress Club rooms. The price paid was $31 000 in cash and the rental at present is $400 per month It will be remembered that this property formerly belonged to C M Carter and was recently purchased by the mortgagee Mr Walker who bid in the same at $30 000 the amount of mortgage and interest to day of sale. There has since been $2 000 spent on improvements made to the property by the late owner. We understand that Mr William Reid purchased the same for some friends. This is believed to be one of the cheapest purchases ever made in this city

A CLOTHES THIEF.—Officer Arnold arrested a Chinaman yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock near the corner of Alder and Third streets The Chinaman was running at the top of his speed with a pair of pants under his arm and closely pursued by several of his countrymen John, it seems while passing the clothing store of Wm Church & Son on First street could not resist the temptation to purloin a pair of pants which hung in front of the place. He slyly took the pants and marched off, but his movements did not escape public attention. Pursuit and capture resulted and John languisheth in durance vile at present writing. Mr Church readily identified the clothing found in possession of the escaping celestial On being taken to the city jail and searched, several pawn tickets were found in his pockets. A police officer took these tickets, went up to a Chinese pawn shop and on presenting them was given several packages of new clothing Like the pair of trowsers found in his possession when captured they had been stolen, John stands in a fair way to do the state some good service

NEW TELEGRAPHIC RATES.—The San Francisco Chronicle of the 25th says The Western Union Telegraph Company had intended on the 1st of next month to introduce the new tariff of rates but have found it necessary to delay it for another month On the 1st proximo however the company instead of only counting five additional words and charging 10 cents therefor will have a rate of 2 cents for a single additional word over ten when the tariff is 25 cents for that number and so on throughout on the same ratio that is, a single word will be charged for instead of five being the minimum as now Mr Gamble the superintendent [illegible] at present at liberty to [illegible] the new tariff will be [illegible] make them public as early as possible

DANTE AND MICHAEL ANGELO

The lecture by Rev T L Eliot last evening drew together as usual one of the most intellectual and attentive of audiences. Florence is a city peculiarly adapted to charm a visitor and is made a home of for months at a time by Americans Though an old city It has never been destroyed by war or fire and is thus the same city essentially as five hundred years ago—filled with thoroughly modern life It boasts three names which have few peers—Savanarola Dante and Michael Angelo The lecturer sketched the character of Dante and the circumstances under which he penned his great work which was described as the most intense and sincere poem ever written The form of it usually attracts most attention and the different punishments and scenery of the inferno but it is chiefly a poem of conscience It was a glass in which living men and institutions might see themselves as they were. Quotations were given indicating the poet's power and moral indignation After an allusion to Lessing's Laocoon the provinces of plastic art and poetry were discriminated and each distinguished by the element of aspiration in it The greatest works of art attract us because we feel that the authors were greater than their work Michael Angelo was seldom contented with anything he did His isolation, fervid patriotism and eccentricity were spoken of and a close description of the figures on the tombs of the Medicis was given The lecture closed with an interesting sketch of local scenes in modern Florence Among the illuminated views that of the famous statue of Moses was particularly fine and impressive Mr Eliot announced that a pressure of duties compelled him to defer the last lecture of the course that on Tom[illegible] until Wednesday the 13th of February

AMUSEMENTS

A NEW SYSTEM OF TREATING DISEASE—THE MOST HOPELESS CASES CURED WITHOUT MEDICINE—WHAT DR C M WOOD IS DOING AT HIS ROOMS CORNER THIRD AND MORRISON STREETS PORTLAND—SOME OF HIS ASTONISHING CURES MADE PUBLIC

Cure of Dyspepsia and Chronic Diarrhea

For the benefit of suffering humanity I deem it my imperative duty to make known to the public what has been done for me by Dr C M Wood Having been subject to dyspepsia for some 13 or 14 years and continuing to grow worse until about four months ago when it ran into chronic diarrhea and [illegible] me in a very [illegible] condition so much so that I found I would be compelled to stop my duties [illegible] having [illegible] one of Dr Wood's circulars I concluded to consult him and I finally to be treated by him for one month the result of which I give in a few words I feel that I am as sound as I ever have been and that so far as my disease is concerned I am perfectly cured

A Marvelous Cure—A Case of Paralysis from Infancy Cured in Four Weeks

PORTLAND Jan 12 1878

In justice to Dr C M Wood and all who may be afflicted with paralysis I freely make the following statement My son Nathan Hackett when two years old became paralyzed [illegible] one half his body completely from his eyes to the end of his toes It is now twelve years since during which time he has gained some use of his leg and some little use of his hand and arm He could walk by dragging his leg after him and bearing his [illegible] on the ground first He could not shut his hand nor stop the voluntary motion of his fingers His wrist was bent down at right angles he could not straighten it His leg and arm were one fourth less in size than the well ones they were cold and sickly looking without the natural circulation Some of the best medical men in America have examined him and said they could do him no good

Dr C M Wood has treated him every day for four weeks and although it seems incredible it is actually the fact that his arm and leg have grown to the size of the others and seem to have the natural circulation Their appearance have changed completely He can walk quite natural putting his heel to the ground first He can now control his fingers, open and shut his hand and straighten out his wrist at will I now see nothing to hinder him from bringing them into perfect use My boy whom I have seen growing up a cripple for twelve years is thus changed from a life of dependence to one of independence by Dr C M Wood

A Case of Paralysis of Six Years' Standing Cured

PORTLAND Jan 21 1878

Dr C M Wood: DEAR SIR—At the solicitation of my friends, who being witnesses to the wonderful results of your treatment in the case of my little daughter Gussie together with the hope that it may come under the notice of some poor fellow being similarly afflicted I herewith present you with a brief statement of her case together with the liberty of using it as you deem best

About six years ago my little girl then a child of six years of age was taken with pains in her lower limbs which continued to increase in violence until finally they became totally paralyzed The child became emaciated to almost a skeleton and her life was saved only through the untiring attention of her attending physicians As I say her life was saved and that is all Through all these years she has grown but little and although able to walk after a very indifferent manner being bent at the knee joints and weak at the ankles which were continually turning under as she walked never free from actual pain or numbness about the feet and limbs feet always icy cold and the blood circulation of the entire body weak

I had in the meantime consulted others of our leading physicians (gentlemen in whom I had and still have great confidence) who advised me to trust to nature helping her, thinking that she might possibly outgrow it and the child had already taken sufficient medicine, an opinion in which I coincided for after my experience I was fully satisfied that it was a case medicine could not reach

She remained in this condition until about two months ago when she received a second attack of paralysis This time, however the arms as well as the lower limbs became affected accompanied with the most excruciating pains

While in this condition I applied to you for treatment with (I will be frank enough to say it) little hope of receiving any benefit but wishing to leave nothing untried that was possible to bring relief to my little girl

The first treatment she received as incredible as it may seem all pain ceased and by the time she received the third treatment her [illegible] which had been dead for so many years were [illegible] as any person's and after continuing the treatment for a period of four weeks with Magnetism alone you have returned my little girl to me perfectly relieved of all of the above afflictions and she can run or walk to day as perfect as any child and we shall always consider that your wonderful treatment has saved her life

With sentiments of respect and earnest wishes for your continued success I am respectfully yours

SMASHING BALLOT BOXES.

HOW THE CONCILIATED EX-REBELS OVERCAME A REPUBLICAN MAJORITY IN SUMTER COUNTY S C—SPECIMEN EXTRACTS FROM THE DEMOCRATIC ORGAN

The following paragraphs are quoted from the Sumter (S C) Watchman of January 3d, and are here printed in full just as they appear in that paper

We take no stock in the stealing and breaking of ballot boxes It was a most shameful and most fool hardy performance on the part of the very few who engaged in it but really our people were so desperate under the prospect of the radical party taking a fresh hold on us that we suppose a few indiscreet ill tempered young men became maddened and desperate and acted before they took time to consider This thing of breaking ballot boxes will never be repeated in this county but look out carpet baggers and scalawags how you attempt in the future to antagonize the races for your personal ends Take care lest you get your personal ends in another sense much earlier than you intend or desire"

Young men of Sumter county you who are just entering upon life and expect to make your homes here are you willing to live under Republican domination all your days? If not say no! and if you are real men you must say no then rise in your young vigor and strength and stamp down the scalawag and the carpet bagger and drive them from your midst now the sooner the better Organize into clubs all over the county and bind yourselves together sworn and pledged to be enemies to the scalawag and the carpet bagger

Sumter has just as good material among the Democrats as any county in the state for a political campaign or any other kind of campaign—but it has not been so far properly organized and manipulated Let us see by experiment what a reorganization can do toward improving the efficiency of our force

Root out the white scoundrels who are poisoning the negroes minds against the decent white citizens and amity and harmony between the two races will spring up spontaneously

Let the motto of the Democrats of Sumter county be down with the carpet bagger and scalawag, no matter what is necessary to make them go down

Eliminate the white element from the Republican party, and you will take away all its power to harm us

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

This man whose homely face you look upon
Was one of nature's masterful great men
Born with strong arms that unfought battles won
Direct of speech and cunning with the pen

Chosen for large designs he had the art
Of winning with his humor and he went
Straight to his mark which was the human heart
Wise too for what he could not break he bent.

Upon his back a more than Atlas load
The burden of the Commonwealth was laid
He stooped and rose up to it though the road
Shot suddenly downward not a whit dismayed

Hold, warriors councillors kings all now give place
To this dear benefactor of the race
—R H Stoddard [illegible]

THE LABOR QUESTION

[illegible] Commercial Advocate

There has been more able argument advanced against the antagonism of labor to capital than is practically demonstrated in this city at the present time The denunciations of capital by the agrarian speakers at the out of the way sandlot meetings and at the gatherings held under the cover of the darkness of night have presented a more potent elucidation of the subject than language could possibly portray

This antagonism has checked all permanent improvements, has stopped nearly all of them that were in progress has thrown thousands of laborers out of work, has produced stagnation in all branches of business and consequent inactivity in the forces necessary to carry on the work which but for this state of affairs would have to be performed

It has also caused a withdrawal of capital from savings banks whose ability to stand the run made upon them evinces clearly that they were sound at core and were well and honestly conducted and by so doing has cut off from the little savings of the hard working honest toilers the interest that was accruing thereon and by having these savings in their own hands they were less safe from loss or wasteful expenditure than they would be in the banks The withdrawal of this capital from active use still further added to the stringency of the times and the sufferings of those who could not get any employment

It has depreciated the value of real estate in this city and county and put a stop to nearly all transactions in that line of business

It has caused men of wealth to withdraw their money from contemplated improvements and has been the means of determining them to seek homes in other cities where property would not be subjected to the depressing influences of lawless and violent actions

It has prevented men of wealth from other cities from coming among us with their capital to participate in the advantages which our position, and then rapidly increasing properties, presented

It has brought suffering want and desolation into many homes and rendered almost desperate the victims of its illadvised movements

We have mentioned only a portion of the evils this antagonistic demonstration has caused to exist We will now give the facts and figures to show what the laboring class have lost during the past four months from this cause and we will place our estimates far below what we can prove should be the actual amount

Men thrown out of employment from the above causes actually number nearly 8 000 For our estimate we place the number at 5 000 Their labor would—taking all the varied departments of labor into account—average not less than $2 50 per day We will reduce this amount to $2 00 per day This stagnation in business has existed for over six months—we will call it four months We will put the working days of the month at 26 days, though many men in many branches of labor work every day of each month

5 000 men at $2 per day is $10 000

5 000 men at $2 per day, 26 days per month, is $260 000

Four months at $260 000 per month is $1 040 000

Now, the laboring men that are idle in this city and county have lost by not being able to work during the past four months one million and forty thousand dollars, at the very lowest estimate

But if we take the actual number of laborers out of work, 8 000 and take the average of their daily wages $2 50 at four months containing 26 days per month and we find the loss will be three million one hundred and twenty thousand dollars, and enormous as this sum may appear it is nearer the actual loss of the laboring class than the first estimate

In the above estimates we have only taken the loss by labor into account The losses by the stoppage of industrial pursuits, by the depreciation of real estate by the cessation of progressive investments and improvements would swell the amount at the least calculation to from sixty to one hundred millions

Is it any wonder that we have suffering desolation, want among us? With these facts before them is it a wonder that men whose interest are so vitally dependent upon a state of active prosperity should be so blind as not to perceive that the antagonism of labor to capital, being a great violation of economic law is certain to produce these evils and that these evils will not cease until this antagonism is cast aside but that they will augment rapidly and continually until the harmonious relations are restored that should ever exist between capital and labor

We beg our laboring friends to take this matter to heart, and endeavor as rapidly as possible to produce that reunion

THE COLLEGE RANK OF LITERARY MEN

[From Scribner's for February]

The most celebrated of our historians essayists, poets, have, as a rule been distinguished in college for excellent scholarship George Bancroft was a high scholar in Harvard's class of 1817 and was particularly distinguished for his attainments in philosophy He was also honored with the class-day poetship of his class, which does not however indicate in itself high scholarship Among the high scholars of the class of 1814 was Wm Hickling Prescott who delivered as his commencement part, a Latin poem "Ad Spem," and of the next class of 1815 the historian of New England Dr Palfrey was a distinguished member Though John Lothrop Motley's college rank was not so high as Doctor Palfrey's, yet its excellence indicated to a certain degree, his future eminence and his literary tastes are manifested in the subject of his commencement part, "The Influence of a multiplication of Books upon Literature" The cultured scholarship of Edward Everett excellent in every department of college study gave him the first place in the class of 1811 and his commencement oration "On Literary Evils" and his oration for the second degree "On the Restoration of Greece" forecast the literary and classical character of the work of his entire life Though Ralph Waldo Emerson was not among the highest scholars of his class yet his rank was most honorable His commencement part was a "conference" with two classmates "On the character of John Knox William Penn and John Wesley" Mr Emerson was also the class day poet of his class of 1821 Our great novelist did not succeed in obtaining a first rate rank at Bowdoin as did his classmate Longfellow Hawthorne wrote in his college days—as Professor Packard who was one of his instructors, informs me—"fine Latin and English" but no commencement part was assigned him "perhaps because he preferred not to have one" Mr George Ripley was distinguished at Harvard for his scholarship in the class of 1823 and delivered an oration for his second degree on "The [illegible] of the Age on Young Men of America"—a claim which he has for the last fifty years done so much to fulfill Mr Longfellow was a high scholar in Bowdoin's most [illegible] class of 1825 the class of John S [illegible] Abbott and George B Cheever as well as of Hawthorne and some of the most graceful of his verses were written before his graduation The [illegible] of poems dedicated to Harvard [illegible] 1829 with which at their [illegible] Oliver Wendell Holmes [illegible] class-mates began on [illegible] commencement day Dr [illegible] served as poet on both occasions [illegible] scholar of the famous class [illegible]

The New York Journal of Commerce of January 14th contains an editorial referring to the motives of the principal owners of the two called silver mines on the Pacific coast It charges them with feigning to be opposed to the passage of the Bland bill for the remonetization of the silver dollar while at heart they are in favor of that measure In support of this it cites the untiring zeal of Senator Jones in championing the silver bill and says that his whole time is devoted to that one thing further that if he be not the owner of a bonanza mine himself he once was and is the intimate friend of those who are thus interested It further intimates that if no money is being used in obtaining favorable legislation on the silver bill it is simply because it is not necessary

Ship Building on the Pacific

There were no ships built on the Pacific coast in 1877 The list of tonnage constructed as compiled by H C Hoyt of the Merchant's Exchange comprises four small steamers one bark one barkentine ten schooners and six scow schooners The cost of the steamers complete was about $[illegible] and of the sail vessels $[illegible] or $[illegible] combined Following is a list of the vessels built and the tonnage of each

Vessel	Tons	Vessel	Tons

The steamers were the Likelike Onward Richard Holyoke and San Joaquin No 5 The Likelike was built for the Hawaiian government and is now doing good service in the inter island trade The bark Lizzie Marshall was built at [illegible] California

Miscellaneous

The Pacific Mail Company will hereafter dispatch three steamers for Panama per month instead of two as heretofore

It has been more difficult than usual to obtain quotations in the local market for a week or two past In no article have transactions shown any change except in potatoes which have advanced 5@6c per bushel and wheat which has declined [illegible]

The failures in Chicago during the year 1877 were 381 the aggregate of liabilities being $[illegible] Banks and bankers come in for $[illegible] With respect to these the Chicago Journal of Commerce remarks "As for the banks the failures and suspensions here recorded were but the weak concerns weeded out to give the solid institutions still more healthful growth They caused severe suffering among the poor people who were unfortunate enough to confide in their firmness but their dissolution subserved the general good"

The exports of grain in 1877 through the port of New York were 52 471 829 bushels of which [illegible] bushels were wheat [illegible] were corn and the balance was made up of rye, barley and oats The wheat is equivalent to [illegible] centals and was drawn principally from the great grain producing states of the northwest

A San Francisco exchange of the 24th says "The low rate of gold now ruling in New York is beginning to be felt in the silver market on this coast. During the past two weeks upwards of $200 000 in half dollars has been shipped to New York and the West Should the present low rate continue probably as many more will be sent provided this market can supply them at about 4¼ discount Silver coin is in demand to day at [illegible] to ⅞ with heavy buyers in the market"

We are informed by a responsible gentleman of this city that in the Alta of a recent date there was an announcement in the commercial news by telegraph from New York that a vessel had been chartered to load railroad iron at Philadelphia for Portland Oregon at $12 per ton Probably this is a movement of the Northern Pacific which may be sending out iron to commence construction of road from some point on the Columbia river We have been unable as yet to find a file of the Alta but the statement made as to the publication of the item in it may be relied on

Boston Wool Market

BOSTON Jan 30—The wool market is unchanged but steady fair demand from manufacturers and prices continue the same as last reported Fine fleeces are very little inquired for and when forced upon the market would have to be sold quite low In fact it is difficult to obtain more for XX and XXX Ohio and Pennsylvania than for good No 1 and X prices ranging from 37 to 45 Michigan Wisconsin New Hampshire and other fleeces range from 39 to 42 and combing and delaine fleeces at 45@53 for low and fine California wool has been in demand sales at 14@28 for fall and [illegible]@33 for spring Superfine and XX pulled wools in demand sales at 32@46
